Welcome

Welcome to CST and the North American premiere of this very special musical, 42 Balloons. Jack Godfrey's uplifting story brings our first official season to a close and what better way to look to the future than with this story of determination, courage, and the pursuit of dreams.

Thank you for choosing to attend live theater! If this is your first time at CST, we are thrilled to welcome you and hope this is just the beginning of your experiences here. The range of work this coming season has much for you to explore and we hope to see you over and over again.

We also want to thank those of you who continue to make CST your home for theater. You have been an important part of what makes CST a vibrant, engaging community and we hope you have enjoyed this season of stories on our stages—whether it was the recent rock 'n' roll experience of Sunny Afternoon or the inspirational take on Hamlet created by Peru's Teatro La Plaza and their mesmerizing company of actors with Down syndrome. The synthesis of contemporary work with Shakespeare was no better expressed than when this Hamlet company, who were using The Kinks' song "I'm Not Like Everybody Else" in their finale, joined the Sunny Afternoon company onstage to sing the song together. It was a special moment that reminded us of our determination to bring you extraordinary theatrical experiences that live long in the memory.

We encourage you to join us for our new season which begins in July with many "see it first" productions including a world premiere play about Billie Jean King, a high-flying circus from Ethiopia, and Richard Maltby and André De Shields reimagining Ain't Misbehavin' for today. We will welcome world-class theatermakers to create new productions of Shakespeare's Much Ado About Nothing and The Merry Wives of Windsor and the return to CST of Chicago legends the Q Brothers Collective and the Royal Shakespeare Company.

Our commitment to making Shakespeare a relevant and immediate experience playing alongside exceptional new emerging talent is no better expressed than in 42 Balloons. Its creator Jack Godfrey is an artist who was inspired by a quintessentially American story to make what has to be one of the most joyful and thought-provoking evenings you could hope to have. We have teamed up again with the producing team who brought you SIX, still currently playing on Broadway and all over the world, to give you another evening of original magic. We hope that 42 Balloons has a long and happy life in the USA and beyond—and that you will always remember its beginnings here at CST.

Thank you again for choosing live theater and for giving us the opportunity of giving you an evening of joy.

Larry's Flight: The Devil's in the Details

By Hannah Sands

On July 2, 1982, Larry Walters explained “a man can’t just sit around.” He had just flown 16,000 feet above Los Angeles, California—in a lawn chair. What was the cause of such extraordinary restlessness? From childhood, Larry cultivated an obsession with flight, be it balloons at Disney World, in a military surplus store, or experimenting with helium for school science projects.

As an adult, this obsession formed into a plan to fly at approximately 7,000

can’t just sit around”

feet above Los Angeles, on Inspiration 1—his homemade aircraft. And like all nail-biting feats, the devil (and delight) resides in the details...

Inspiration 1 took the form of a sturdy lawn chair, water jugs, an altimeter, and 42 weather balloons (or maybe 43*). Larry's preparations also included equipping himself with a parachute, life jacket, radio, compass, camera, BB gun, two liters of Coca-Cola, a six pack of Miller Lite beer, sandwiches, and an extra pair of sunglasses. His intention was to fly north to the Mojave Desert, where he would descend by shooting a number of balloons with his BB gun.

Executing this plan was difficult.

The collection of materials and equipment totaled $15,000 (roughly equivalent of $49,709 in 2025). Carol, Larry's girlfriend of 10 years, had to find a way to cover these costs. During this flight itself, Larry not only took off earlier than planned due to a rope snapping, but he drifted south towards the Pacific Ocean, and more than doubled his intended height!

What makes a man want to fly in a lawn chair? What makes a woman buy 42 weather balloons?

And to top it all off, how the heck did Larry Walters get himself back down?!

**Larry often said he had 43 balloons in the rig, but most reports mentioned just 42.*

A NOTE FROM JACK GODFREY, WRITER

42 Balloons is, at its heart, a show about dreams.

About chasing them, about helping others to achieve them, and about what happens when they come true. For me, it really has been a dream come true to bring our show to Chicago Shakespeare Theater this summer.

As a Brit who grew up almost 4,000 miles away in the city of Oxford, England, it is a humongous honor to have the opportunity to share the story of Larry Walters and Carol Van Deusen in the country where it actually happened. 42 Balloons is, in many ways, a love letter to American art and culture in all its forms, and for me that love began when I spent a year studying at Boston College eleven years ago. It has been extremely special to return to the US and to be welcomed so warmly and enthusiastically by everyone at CST within our wonderful company.

There are so many people I must thank: namely every actor, musician, and creative who has helped us to workshop and develop 42 Balloons up to this point, as well as every supporter of the show, champion of new musical theater, family member and friend who has been there for us in some way over the years. Your feedback, advice, and support in all its forms has been truly invaluable.

And I'm especially grateful to Chicago Shakespeare Theater and to our producers Andy, Wendy, Kevin, Sonia, Sam and Debbie, for leading us, believing in us and giving us this incredible opportunity. This experience is truly something for which I will be grateful for the rest of my life.

I hope you enjoy the show!

—Jack
